Yes, she was lovely, she was fair, As mild as summer even; An angel from, a spirit bright, A star that dropt from heaven. Well she was.

And O, those bright and lustrous orbs, That beamed with holy fire, Those auburn curls, that lovely brow, None, none, could but admire. Well they couldn't

And O, that light and graceful form, So like a beauteous fairy-(Perhaps we'd best leave out the 'f' And then it would be airy,) Well it would.

I knelt before her and I swore, I'd have one burning kiss, She said: 'Go wash your face before You can enjoy such bliss!' Well she did.

I swore she was an angel too, Who'd fallen from the sky; She cried-'O, for a pair of wings Once more to soar on high.' I vow she did.

What, what!' I cried, 'and would you thus A lover true desert! Q heavens!"she cried, 'the clothes line's broke There goes my brother's shirt.

Well she did-old hoss.
